WELCOME TO THE COLLEGE

On behalf of the RAOC Apprentices College, I wish to extend a warm welcome to all the visitors here at the Summer Term Passing Out Parade. I know many of you will have travelled considerable distances to be here with us to-day, and I can assure you that your support is greatly appreciated by both apprentices and permanent staff.

The apprentices who are passing out to-day have completed a rigorous training which should benefit them admirably for a successful career in the Army. It is the sincere hope of the College that the apprentices who pass out will, in due course, assume appointments as senior non-commissioned officers. Many have the capability, and will be provided with the opportunity to reach a warrant rank and some may be commissioned.

The Passing Out Parade is extraordinary in that we are saying farewell to the permanent staff and apprentices of the Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, who after a long association with the College, are moving to Arborfield. We wish them all the best of luck in the future.

I hope that you will enjoy the Summer Term Passing Out Parade to-day, and that you will take advantage of the availability of the permanent staff to discuss your son's progress and any aspects of his military career about which you are unclear.

On behalf of the College staff, I would like to wish the parents and term leavers the very best for the future and thank them for being here to-day, when the RAOC Apprentices College is on parade for you, and your son's, enjoyment.

D M PUTT
Lieutenant Colonel
Commanding Officer

THE STAFF BAND OF THE ROYAL ARMY ORDNANCE CORPS

The music to-day is played by the Staff Band of the Royal Army Ordnance Corps. Originally this band was formed from volunteer RAOC Depot soldiers in 1921. In 1922 the nucleus of the present Corps Band was formed with the addition of 16 musicians mostly from the 3rd Battalion The Rifle Brigade.

In January 1939 the Band was officially recognised as an established Staff Band of the British Army and Bandmaster H C Jarman was appointed as Director of Music. In 1953 the Band moved to Blackdown.

The present Director of Music is Captain R S Parker who joined the Wiltshire Regiment in August 1957 and the Duke of Edinburgh Royal Regiment after amalgamation in 1959. In 1968 he attended a Student Bandmaster Course at the Royal Military School of Music Kneller Hall and was appointed Bandmaster to the 2nd Royal Regiment of Fusiliers in 1970. In 1976 he was appointed Bandmaster to the Queens Division at Basingbourne and on commissioning as Director of Music to the Prince of Wales Division in 1977. Captain Parker is a keen hockey player and a qualified hockey umpire.

The Band carries out an intensive programme of parades, concerts, dances and many forms of official functions. In recent years they have toured Germany, the Far and Middle East, West Indies, and Central and North America.

COLLEGE PERSONALITIES

LIEUTENANT COLONEL D M PUTT RAOC - COMMANDING OFFICER

Lieutenant Colonel Dan Putt was born in Leigh, Lancashire on 2nd December 1940 and was educated in Lancaster. He assumed the appointment of Commanding Officer of the College on 7th August 1981.

He joined the RAOC on commissioning from the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst in July 1961. Since that time he has served in Bahrain, France, Holland, Malaya, Northern Ireland and BAOR. He is a qualified Army parachutist and served in 16 Parachute Brigade.

On the academic side, he attended the Management Sciences Course at the University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology where he gained a Diploma.

Lieutenant Colonel Putt has always taken an active interest in sport both as an organiser and a player. At Sandhurst he was awarded the Silver Bugle as athlete of the year and subsequently gained his Army Athletic Colours when he was the Army sprint champion. He has also represented the Army and his Corps at Rugby.

He is married and lives in Deepcut.

A HISTORY OF THE ROYAL ELECTRICAL AND MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

In the 1914-18 War, mechanical transport and wireless communications were first used on a large scale. At this stage the RE, RA, R Sigs and RASC all had their own repair organisations, with the RASC being responsible for most of the remaining technical equipment. In 1926 the RAOC took over the responsibility for the repair of the majority of the Army's MT and fighting vehicles.

The vast increase in the quantity and complexity of military technical equipment at the start of the Second World War finally brought things to a head. On 1st October 1942 the Corps of Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers was formed. The new Corps did not immediately undertake responsibility for all equipment maintenance and repair, since some of the other technical Corps still looked after their own equipment. Since that time, however, this responsibility has been handed over to REME in a number of phases.

In 1945 the strength of the Corps stood at 160,000, that is equivalent to the total strength of the whole British Army in 1974. The current Corps strength is approximately 15,000 military personnel with an additional 16,000 civilians working for REME establishments.

During the period 1964-68 a number of changes took place, so that REME now undertakes, with minor exceptions, all inspection, modification, repair and recovery of the Army's mechanical, aeronautical, electrical, electronic and optical equipment beyond the capacity of the troops who operate it.

A HISTORY OF THE ROYAL ARMY ORDNANCE CORPS

To-day the Royal Army Ordnance Corps is a highly developed part of the British Army, being responsible, in brief, for the receipt, storing and issuing of thousands of different types of stores required by the Army. Such stores range from hand tools to guided missiles, food to ammunition, petrol to radar equipment. Additionally, specialist services such as printing, bakeries and laundry services are provided.

As a military body, the Corps dates back little more than a century. However, ordnance services as such have their origins in the 15th century; the first recorded holder of the appointment Master General of Ordnance being in 1414. His function primarily was the storing and supplying of war-like stores. Following the sweeping Army reforms of 1855 came the forerunner of the RAOC with the formation of the Military Stores Department, under a Director of Stores. In 1893 the department was re-designated the Army Ordnance Department and Corps.

A great proving ground for the Ordnance Services came with the 1914-18 War, and after severe testing their services were fully recognized. In November 1918 the Department and Corps were amalgamated and granted the title "Royal", and the RAOC as such was in being. During the Second World War the RAOC operated world-wide and from a seriously under-established body grew into a highly efficient organisation which by the end of hostilities numbered 8,000 officers and 130,000 men.

Since the War the Corps has continued to give invaluable service; there has been re-organisation and with the disbandment of the Royal Army Service Corps in 1965 took over the supply functions of that Corps. Full advantage has been taken of modern techniques. Computers are widely used in stock control and the Corps pioneered the introduction of work study in the Army. The RAOC faces an enormous logistical task, demanding high standards of administrative skill, technical and military knowledge from all ranks.
